Public sector

- Big part of any country's economy
- Vary in numbers and responsibilities
- More similarities than differences
- No competition
- Many contacts with citizens and businesses
- Blurring distinction between private and public

Outsourcing and Off-shoring

Outsourcing is a one-time event for a specific function that previously has been a part of an organization and afterwards becomes a part of another organization and the relation between these organizations is regulated by a contract.

Off-shoring is outsourcing to another country

IT outsourcing is often a response to the hype and publicity surrounding the subject – a bandwagon effect leads to senior managers asking: “Why don’t we outsource IT?” (Willcocks and Currie, 1997)*

...outsourcing may reflect the desire of senior managers to get rid of a troublesome function that finds it difficult to demonstrate its business value (Lacity, Willcocks and Feeny, 1995)
